Dear Mr Beaudoin,

I am deeply disturbed to learn that Bombardier is supplying cars to the Chinese Government for the China-Tibet Railway. The railway is a politically driven project, which forms the cornerstone of the Chinese Government's 'Western Development Plan' to intensify its control over Tibet through infrastructure and resource extraction projects. As your management and shareholders meet on June 7th, I trust that you will reconsider your involvement in this flawed project.

The Tibet railway is the single project most feared by Tibetans, who have lived under Chinese occupation since 1950. The rail line will greatly facilitate China's efforts to move millions of Chinese settlers into Tibet, enable increased militarization of the Tibetan plateau and allow China to easily transport Tibet's natural resources to China's east coast, with little benefit to Tibetans.

By agreeing to supply rail cars to the Chinese Government for this project, Bombardier has made itself complicit in China's occupation and colonization of Tibet. Bombardier is not currently known as a company that invests in socially or environmentally controversial projects, yet it is one of very few western companies that have dared to assist the Chinese Government with this devastating project. Please consider carefully whether you wish Bombardier to develop a reputation as a funder of military occupation, cultural decimation, and environmental disaster.

I urge you to withdraw from this project immediately.

Sincerely,
